

Train Derailed East of Jarrow

Last Thursday afternoon the wheels under a box car loaded with grain coupled, causing a train derailment just one-half mile east of Jarrow. About seven hundred feet of track were torn up. Trains were re-routed by Lloydsminster until the track was repaired several hours later. Fortunately no one was injured.

Work crews are still busy repairing the damage done to the track.

Weekly Inspirational Corner

(Sponsored by an Irma Times reader)

Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that be saved? And he said unto them, Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

When once the master of the house is risen up, and has come to the door, he begins to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and He shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are:

Then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

But He shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are: depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. —St. Luke 13:23-27.

Montreal—Eastern and Western Canada will be less than five hours apart early next year when Trans-Canada Air Lines takes delivery of the first of six ordered 127-passenger, 550-mile-an-hour Douglas DC-8 Jetliners. The aircraft will go into service on trans-continental and trans-Atlantic routes, cutting present flying times by more than one-third. The first of the Rolls-Royce-powered DC-8s, pictured here, flew at Long Beach, Calif., on July 23. Inset is a photograph of TCA's first passenger craft, a 10-passenger Electra, which has a range of 1,030 miles and uses trans-continental air service. The Electra was only 50 feet in length, while the DC-8 stretches 149 feet from nose to tail. The two are shown here in comparative size. The DC-8 devours more fuel in taxi-ing and take-off than the Electra was capable of carrying. (TCA PHOTO)

WITH THE District Agriculturist

By J. S. Duncan

Culling the Beef Herd:

If you want to keep improving the quality of your herd it is necessary to keep culling out the poorer animals and adding replacements. Weaning time is an excellent time to cull the herd because at this time it is easy to identify the cows which have small or poor calves. Also at this time any dry cows are usually in good shape for selling. Cows which are unsound in either feed or udder should be culled.

When culling out replacement heifers keep about 20 per cent more than you need so that you can cull them again in the spring as some of the heifers which look good in the fall may not be so good by spring.

Harding Tough Grain:

With the weather we have had this fall, it is likely that there is tough grain in some grain bins. Two problems which are likely to happen are heating and insect or both together. Because of this danger all granaries should be checked for signs of heating or insects every couple of weeks. If trouble develops it may be necessary to move the grain in order to cool and dry it, or if insects are bad, fumigation may be the best way to take care of them. The main thing is to spot trouble developing so that it can be stopped before much damage is done.

Egg Deficiency Payments:

The Agricultural Price Stabilization Board is now registering all egg producers as in order to be eligible for deficiency payments a producer must be registered. If you produce and market eggs you should get an "Application for Registration" form from your egg grading station, or from Delta Processing Unit, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ontario.

If you wish to be eligible for deficiency payments, get your application for registration filled out and sent in.

IT BLEW UP!

Wadena, Sask. — A group of campers who recently went to Mc-Cormick's Bay for a weiner roast were lucky, so they thought. They found a camp fire already laid paper and wood all stacked and waiting. So they took a match to it. The group was confident that they were fortunate.However, all that glitters is not gold. After the fire had been going for some time it exploded, showing the group with red hot cinders and ashes. One small girl received a bad burn near her eye.
The campers found the spot the campers found some foil that had been tightly wrapped around gun powder.Other campers are advised to check any fireplace that is already prepared ... it, too, might be loaded.—The News.

Brooks Buffaloes Win
Alberta Intermediate Finals

(From the Viking News)

In a three-game series held at Brooks over the Labor Day weekend, the Brooks Buffaloes won the championship by defeating the Viking Shamrocks two games— one on Sunday, and the other on Monday afternoon. The championship was decided on a five-game series—the Shamrocks having won one and lost one the Sunday previous to Viking.

The first game on Sunday was won by Brooks by a score of 3 to 2, while the second the Shamrocks took by the score of 13 to 11. Ron Gates did mound duty for the first game, Kevin Gleeson the second, and Joe Makar the third.

The Shamrock's management has protested the third game which the Buffaloes won by the score of 1 to 3, due to the fact that the Buffaloes used home talent umpires, both behind the plate and for the bases. There was an official umpire for the Sunday games but the Buffalo's manager did not use him for the final game on Monday.

Up to the time of going to press, we have no word of the result of the protest.

News Report From Edmonton

By Ken Mason

EDMONTON—The provincial cabinet changes forecast in this corner last week were confirmed sooner than we had expected.

Later in the week, cabinet finished the reorganization by appointing deputy ministers to head up the two new departments which were created. Jack Oberholzer, who had been deputy minister of industries and labor, switched over to second in command of the new department of industry and development. Ken Pugh, chairman of the board of industrial relations, was named deputy minister of the new labor department.

Actually, so far as the operation of individual government branches is concerned, the shuffle doesn't mean too much. Only real changes are at the top administrative level, while the branches and divisions continue to do the same work under the direction of the same people.

For example, Mr. Pugh as deputy minister of labor will continue to head the industrial relations board. Branches of the labor department will include the apprenticeship board and tradesmen's qualification, the employment liaison branch and all industrial safety inspection services. These all were previously parts of the now-defunct industries and labor department.

Industry and development will take over other branches of industries and labor, including the bureau of statistics, the provincial marketing board, the Alberta power commission and licensure of trades and businesses. One branch of the former economic affairs department—the industrial development branch—also goes to industry and development.

Other branches of the economic affairs department now come under the provincial secretary's department. These include the government travel bureau, publicity and advertising offices, the film and photographic branch, the library board and cultural activities.

The cabinet changes were announced by Premier Manning on Monday of last week, almost entirely along the lines forecast here, and the ministers involved were sworn into their new offices the following day.

Hon. A. R. Patrick, the former minister of economic affairs, was sworn in as minister of industry and development and provincial secretary. Hon. Raymond Reiverson, formerly minister of industries and labor, was sworn in as minister of labor.

Mr. Reiverson also will take over the telephones portfolio from Hon. Gordon Taylor, but the swearing-in has been deferred for the time being.

Talk among civil servants indicates the majority of them don't feel they'll be affected too much by the top-level change. The only ones who might notice a difference are those who worked for economic affairs but now will be under hard-driving, fast-moving E. R. Hughes, deputy provincial secretary.

Meanwhile, the ministers and deputies involved are gradually becoming acquainted with their new positions.

Premier Manning, as we suggested last week, didn't unload any one of his three portfolios, but watch for a further shuffle after he sees how some of his new members perform during a couple of legislative sessions.

NO WONDER the highways are crowded. Passenger car registrations in Alberta have hit an all-time high. With only five months of the fiscal year gone, there were 295,782 cars registered in Alberta, compared with last year's 12-month figure of 293,701. Registrations of all vehicles total 432,420, compared with 406,881 at the same time last year, the highways department reports.

FROM THE LIQUOR BOARD comes word that stores in towns and villages will close one day per week to give employees a five-day, 40-hour week. This will bring store hours in line with those in the cities. Only exceptions for the time being are stores at Grande Prairie, Camrose, Drumheller and Red Deer. Employees of liquor stores there will continue to work a 5½ day week until arrangements can be made to shorten their hours. The new hours at country points go into effect Sept. 14.

DRIVER TRAINING NOT FOR SCHOOLS

All of the arguments by the Alberta Motor Association for training young people how to drive are sound. The accident rate is far too high. Nearly all of the accidents are caused by human errors, not mechanical. Eighty-five per cent of all students will be driving soon after they reach 16.

But the AMA is wrong in demanding that driver training be squeezed into the school curriculum. It is not the function of the schools to teach such skills. They are already skimping on many aspects of fundamental education. Certainly improper use of the accelerator has a more direct impact on human lives than inadequate knowledge of Shakespeare, and more people are killed by crossing double white lines than by isosceles triangles. But that is not the point.

Staying alive comes before learning how to live, but it is the peculiar function of the schools to teach how to live rather than how to stay alive. They haven't enough time to do the first properly, in this increasingly complex world.

We favor the strictest driving standards. No person should be allowed behind the wheel who hasn't had the most rigorous training. But he must get it some other way, not in school hours at the expense of his education.

NIGHT DRIVING TIPS OFFERED

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass. — Dr. Oscar W. Richards, chief biologist for the American Optical company, offers motorists six rules for night driving.

Take time to get used to seeing when leaving a bright place before starting to drive at night.

Relax the eyes by looking about as much as safe driving permits. Never stare long in the same spot.

Protect the eyes from glare. Look at the sides of the road rather than at the source of the light.

At night, never wear sunglasses or tinted spectacles.

Keep spectacles, windshield and lights clean and free from surface damage.

Slow down until the perceptual load is not too great for good driving.

SEED DEALER'S ACT AMENDED

The regulations under the Alberta Seed Dealer's Act have recently been amended according to an announcement by Hon. L. C. Halmrast.

The new amendment makes it necessary for seed salesmen to be licensed under the Seed Dealer's Act when selling any kind or variety of seed not recommended by the Alberta Crop Production Board. The revision is expected to curb the activities of itinerant seed salesmen who in the past have been selling seeds of an undesirable kind to farmers.

SOIL TESTS FOR FARMERS

It's time to be thinking about soil sampling again says J. A. Robertson, Assistant Professor of Soil Science at the University of Alberta. The soil testing service at the University is becoming well known and farmers throughout the province are appreciating its value. In requesting this service however, there are certain things to keep in mind.

Excellent as it is, this soil testing service is not available to everyone. Farmers, market gardeners, home gardeners and greenhouse operators can use it at the very nominal charge of 50 cents per sample. The service is not available for testing samples that might involve litigation, nor is it available to commercial companies who might desire it for advertising. The soil test can give an indication of fertilizer needs, and it can determine whether or not a soil is "alkaline," but it cannot evaluate land either for sale price or tax assessment.

About collecting samples—district agriculturists can supply sample kits.

FALL WEED CONTROL

After the rain we have had it is going to be even more important to do a late fall cultivation of land infested with such weeds as Toad Flax, Leafy Spurge, Canada Thistle, Sow Thistle and Quack Grass. This last operation in the fall is very important in reducing the strength of such weeds and so making them easier to control and eradicate.

Home Economics Training:

Training in homemaking is the objective of the Home Economics Course at the Olds and Vermilion Schools of Agriculture but much of the training is applicable to numerous forms of employment, advises N. N. Bentley, Principal of the Vermilion School. Although there is no attempt to provide training for any particular job, graduates have found employment in hospitals, retail stores, banks, business offices and dressmaking shops. Others have been engaged by such firms as the Singer Sewing Machine Company, Canada Packers and department stores where their special training in particular subjects of the Home Economics Course is highly useful.

Homemaking subjects include sewing, clothing selection, textiles, cooking, nutrition, handcrafts, laundering, home nursing and home management. Subjects such as horticulture, dairy and poultry with special emphasis on relation of the subject matter to the homemaker's interests are also available. Incidental dental training in living in the school dormitory and participating in a wide range of student activities under staff supervision provides valuable social experience and promotes confidence.

Some graduates have continued for further training in teaching or nursing, and in Home Economics at the University where a certificate from the Schools of Agriculture has assisted in meeting entrance requirements and obtaining employment advantages later. It should be noted here, says Dr. Bentley, that the Department of Education will grant to our graduates a total of eight non-credits toward a high school diploma. This means that students who have completed a high school program can replace a fourth year in high school with a term at the School of Agriculture and so obtain a high school diploma of graduation from a School of Agriculture.

Full information and application forms for the coming term can be obtained from The Principal, School of Agriculture, at either Olds or Vermilion or at our office.

Tight Money and Farm Credit

The Interprovincial Farm Union Council interviewed Mr. Fleming on Thursday morning, Sept. 3rd. The questions uppermost in the minds of the organization was—How is the present tight money policy going to affect the farmers and their harvesting operations.

Mr. Fleming's comments were remarkable in that he insisted that neither the government nor the banks were getting credit to tighten up credit restrictions. Furthermore he made it quite clear that he and the cabinet would look with great disfavor on any restrictions on farm improvement loans. The government increased the size of these loans at the last session and designed them to make more credit available in this field for the farmers. He stated that he felt the banks were getting adequate returns on these loans.

THE OTHER VIEW

The distance you travel is the way it stretches your mind. I figure that is what is meant by the old saying that it broadens. Your thinking is broadened by other points of view.

For instance, where I live it has been raining a lot this summer. My friends have a lot to say about the lousy weather, the ruined weekends at the cottage and the ruined-out golf games.

Rain was the favorite topic of conversation when I visited Regina recently. There it was, it was raining. Rain. The people would be delighted with some of our lousy weather.

The subject was so omnipresent in everyone's mind that it penetrated every conversation. I heard the weather was about as bad as it could be. Many times I was told conditions were just like those conditions in the droughts of the "dirty thirties."

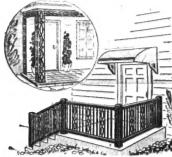

It was easy to feel the fear because there remained. That year had even spread on beyond the dry areas. Throughout the prairies I heard about Saskatchewan's weather. The neighbours were worried too.

During a summer downtown in Winnipeg, a taxi-driver's comment was typical: "Too bad that we are not getting some of this in Saskatchewan."

Too bad, we can't always stretch our minds a bit to include another point of view. If we stopped to think a bit, we might sometime expand our own ideas on any subject, we would certainly broaden our own thinking.

Man. duck limits cut by shortage

Several major changes in the Game Bird Regulations for 1959 were announced by the Manitoba Provincial Game Branch last week.

A marked shortage of ducks on the Prairies has resulted in the daily limit being reduced from 10 to 7 with a new restriction on Canvassacks and Redheads. Not more than 4 of the daily limit of 7 may be Canvassacks or Redheads or any combination of the two.

The possession limit for ducks is 21 of which not more than 8 may be Canvassacks or Redheads or any combination of the two.

The waterfowl season south of the 53rd parallel except for the Delta Waterfowl Control Area opens at noon, September 18 and extends to November 28. The Delta Waterfowl Control Area, the south end of Lake Manitoba, will be open from noon, September 25 to November 28. The season north of the 55th parallel runs from noon, September 1 to October 31 and the area between the 53rd and 55th parallels, the Pas Marshes, extends from noon, September 11 to November 21. Noon on opening day reckoned in Central Standard Time.

There will be no cultivated land season for ducks this year and no pheasant season will be closed.

The season for geese is unchanged with the daily limit of 5, possession limit of 10, and no season limit except in the York Factory area where the goose season limit is 10.

The daily limit for Coots and Rail is 15; possession limit, 30, and no season limit. For White-tail Snipe, the daily limit is 8; possession limit 16; and no season limit.

The Upland Game Bird season will open a week earlier this year to give hunters lots of time if they want to have a meal for their Thanksgiving dinner. The season runs from October 2 to November 7 except for pheasant which runs from November 2 to December 31. The Sharp-tailed Grouse season and limit is unchanged with a daily limit of 8 and no possession limit of 16. The Garbanzo Partridge limit has been increased from 2 daily and 4 possession to 4 daily and 8 possession. The Ruffed Grouse (birch partridge) and Spruce Grouse limits have been increased from 4 and 6 to 6 and 12.

The Big Game season will open much earlier for deer this year in an effort to give hunters a chance at the animals before the heavy snowfall. Provincial game authorities hope that in this way they will get a much bigger and badly needed kill of deer and at the same time provide more pleasant hunting. In two of the last five seasons heavy snows have seriously interfered with deer hunters.

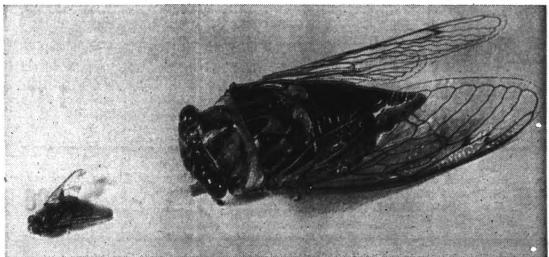

SAUGENAY RIVER

Tourist cruises on Quebec's Saguenay River, which runs between cliffs up to 1,600 feet high, have been operated since 1949.

CATION — PARENTS: Plastic bags should be kept away from small children. Don't permit small children to play with plastic film wrappings. Do not use them as covering in Baby Carriages, playpens and cribs. Thin film can cause suffocation if brought into contact with a child's skin so as to cover nose and mouth. Just as you don't permit children to play with sharp objects or medicine, take away plastic film wrappings from matches.

THE LARGE AND THE SMALL are compared in this picture when this week a one and a half-inch Housefly, as it has been called, was brought to the Acton Free Press office. Aiden Lee, a member of the 1958 Acton Mill Street, Acton, reported the fly was found in their house after it had picked up a goldfish out of the bowl and dropped it onto the floor. The monster is pictured above with an ordinary housefly.

Manitoba legislative session ends after eight weeks

Manitoba's twenty-sixth legislature ended eight weeks of deliberation August 4. The legislature approved 110 bills and hundred more.

Government legislation affected almost every facet of life in the province. Government programs were described in the budget address as designed to better human resources as well as natural resources.

One of the most important bills introduced was new Social Allowance Legislation, introduced by health minister, Hon. George Johnson. The new legislation removes the burden of long-term welfare cases from municipalities.

It insures that no resident of Manitoba, including Indians and immigrants, will lack such things essential to his health and well-being as food, clothing, shelter, and essential medical, medical and optical and dental care.

Among the other important legislation were bills dealing with:

Water control legislation—This will put the control of water under the jurisdiction of the province. All drainage matters will be handled by an expert staff in this department and all legislation concerning water control and drainage has been incorporated into one act.

Workmen's compensation was broadened to include new categories of workers and to increase the payment to beneficiaries. The amendments were recommended in the Turgon Commission Report released last fall. The government has been unable to get men to accept the new scheme because they are not satisfied with the judgment of the Compensation Board.

The Vacation-with-Pay Act was amended to give employees two weeks' holiday with pay after one year's employment. Previously employees got two weeks' holiday with pay only after three years' employment.

The Hospital Insurance Plan has been changed to add new classes of persons as dependents and to ease qualifications for payment of hospital bills outside the province. Widowed mothers with dependent children supported by a self-supporting son or daughter will now be classified as dependent. The self-supporting son or daughter will be able to cover them under the plan by paying a single-family rate premium. Out-of-province treatment does not now qualify as it was previously, but the province will continue to pay a set daily rate to outside hospitals regardless of the actual cost of treatment.

Penal Reform—The province's first correctional work camp for prisoners will be started this summer. The Attica, Greyson department will hire six or seven new probation officers to extend probation service to centres outside Greater Winnipeg. The Government will also set up a Law Reform Committee to advise on changes to provincial laws.

Grants to municipalities and non-profit organizations building accommodation for elderly persons will be increased. At the same time, the government said it will appoint a full-time director of elderly persons services for the next few months. The new scheme will allow the province to guarantee loans to voluntary organizations or municipalities building elderly persons accommodation.

The Government will establish a Board of Inquiry to study the social and economic consequences of the proposed changes.

Eskimo co-ops established

Whitehorse, Yukon.—How much is "two igloos filled to the roof with fish?"

You may not have a clue but Eskimos can pretty well imagine how much fish that is. It took picturesque expressions like this to explain to the Eskimos of the Ungava Bay region the intricacies of the new co-operative. It worked, too, and a result the region now enjoys Canada's first Eskimo co-op, Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said recently.

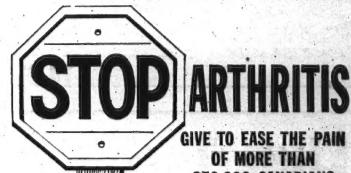

The "George River Eskimo Fisheries Cooperative" now units some 20 Eskimos of the settlement of George River in Northern Quebec in a project aimed at raising their standard of living. A second Eskimo co-op, with an initial membership of 10, has also received legal status at Port Burwell in the Northwest Territories.

The two co-operatives will engage mainly in char fishing and blueberry picking and their products will be processed in 15-ton freezers to be purchased from monies obtained from the Eskimo Loan Fund.

The concept of pooling labour and sharing the harvest has been traditional among the Eskimos for centuries. Now, though, the idea that they will have to go into debt collectively to buy the necessary equipment. Apart from borrowing money like any other commercial enterprise the co-operatives will operate without any outside financial assistance.

Mr. Hamilton said he hoped the co-operative idea would spread throughout the Arctic. A special co-operative development officer and an Eskimo assistant have been appointed to direct the movement. The aim is to provide assistance only while the Eskimos are being taught to manage co-op themselves.

Oh yes, how much fish in two igloos? About 30,000 pounds, the expected annual catch for each co-op!—The Star.
